Highly recommended and included in our selection of best Windows data recovery tools, TestDisk comes with the ability to recover lost partitions. Its interface is particularly suited for beginners, requiring only a few mouse clicks to perform a deep scan of the specified volume and recover all the partitions it holds. If you have accidentally deleted a big chunk of data from a partition, TestDisk's advanced features can be extremely valuable. The tool is able to visualize and visually assess a partition in which a considerable amount of data is missing. Data can also be recovered from a partition that has been "touched" by the OS, which means that the disk has been marked as a free space. In addition, TestDisk can be used to find the directory where the data that was lost is actually located. TestDisk is also useful to test for disk errors when performing regular system backups. Although you can perform a similar function with other similar tools, TestDisk is 09e8f5149f

Fling is an app designed to add high-quality stickers to your YouTube, Vimeo and Facebook videos. It helps you create various online videos clips, including personal videos and lets you share them with others at no cost. The application comes with a slew of customizable options that let you pick the file format, dimensions, aspect ratio, set a custom background, as well as choose from four different font styles, including the same one that can be embedded into your videos. In case you are seeking a simple tool for putting a few stickers on your online videos, then Fling is a great choice. It comes with a polished user interface and can be used by both novices and experts with little to no trouble. However, there is a catch. No direct access to your images The only option the app offers is to choose a preloaded collection of stickers, which you can organize as you wish. It's also possible to delete those that you don't like. Since the application does not allow you to upload your own images, you'll have to stick to the ones that are already embedded in it. The good news is that Fling does not need any space-consuming images in your PC. You only need to download a few gigabytes, which does not overly affect your system performance. All the files are saved on the cloud, so you can also use them at a later time. In case you need them, you can access Fling's download center and restore them. Add stickers to your YouTube, Facebook and Vimeo videos You can add stickers to your videos via this utility in two ways. In the first place, you can search for them using a large range of tags, such as holidays, funny, and food. At the time of writing, there are over 50,000 stickers available in the app. As a matter of fact, the most popular ones are also available in the search results. In case you don't want to rely on Fling's search, you can simply load a file of your choosing as the new sticker and give it a name. This way, you do not have to rely on tags or filters, and you can freely pick whatever you want. If you want to, you can customize the new sticker. You can either change the font style and dimensions or give it a custom background image. If you would like to make it look the same as the one that is used in your videos, you can select the same
