Block MAC addresses and IP addresses for YouTube Why use KEYMACRO? KeyMACRO is a free and simple MAC address and IP address blocker for the popular website YouTube. What does KeyMACRO do? KeyMACRO filters internet connections by blocking MAC addresses and IP addresses. This will also cause any attempts to download videos on YouTube to fail. How does it work? First of all, the program will scan the entire computer for internet connections. In doing so, it will first scan the MAC address and then the IP address. The program will block MAC addresses and IP addresses from accessing the website and will not allow that connection to complete. The website will not be blocked, but this will cause any attempt to download videos on YouTube to fail. The creator of the program created this as a free tool to combat copyright infringement, but the possibilities of its usage are actually endless. The program will only work with Windows operating systems. Also, any changes made to the configuration file will require a restart of the computer, which is not very practical. However, one must admit that the program is extremely user friendly and easy to use. So, the positives outweigh the negatives of the program. Are there any downsides to using KEYMACRO? KEYMACRO is a free tool, but it only has very basic features. For example, the program does not allow multiple network connections, so the use of more than one computer is not supported by the program. Also, this is a very basic application and it does not filter websites or passwords. FAQ What MAC address filtering can you do with this app? KeyMACRO will allow you to block internet traffic that is associated with specific MAC addresses and IP addresses. Using this app, you can block a specific company's devices, or you can block any devices that are connected to the same wireless network as you are. Use the MAC address filtering software Powerful MAC address filtering software with advanced features to block all wireless connections in less than a second! STEP 1 First, you must select your wireless network from the list or enter a specific SSID manually. STEP 2 Now you will see a list of wireless clients within the range of your wireless network. STEP 3 Select any wireless client you want to block. STEP 4 You can now either click the Start button or the Start now button to activate the network security. STEP 5 77a5ca646e

This application allows you to use your computer as an internet radio (streaming radio), only using your browser. It does that by streaming music from your computer to your desktop, so you can enjoy your music with a visualiser (like the Shazam, Songkick or Slacker) on the computer screen. It also allows you to turn the music you like into MP3 or OGG files and store them in your music library. For those with knowledge of HTML, it also has a very simple web interface to modify the settings. It works on Windows and Linux. This application requires Java (version 1.7+). For Windows, you need to install and start Java from here (for Windows 8+ : here). If you are using another version of Java, the application should work with it. Currently this application can support only Shazam, Songkick and Slacker as visualisers. It's recommended that you start the service manually and open the application every time you want to listen to the music. Features: * Music files can be stored in your own music library (files cannot be downloaded, but music is stored locally) * Music is not stored in your computer - only streams live from your computer * Music files can be stored in your personal cloud* You can use your own favorite music service as a visualiser What's new in this version: We improved the algorithm to perform better We improved the interface to make it more clear We made the app more responsive We added the LAME decoding engine Other small changes that makes the application more stable We added the support for iPhone 5.0 * Lame encoding engine support We added new visualizers (from Soundhound).
