Tips & Tricks Here are some helpful tips and tricks to using Photoshop: Add fade. If you want to fade a color out of an image, you can add a fade filter to a layer. You can set the distance of the fade by choosing how many pixels from the center it will fade and whether it is linear or radial. You can then click OK to add the effect and finish editing the image, or you can click Apply to immediately apply the effect (that is, apply it before you continue editing the image). Click Ctrl-click (Windows) or Command-click (Mac) the layer to select it for editing. Add blur. You can add a blur filter to the same layer you added fade to and create a blurred image as a result. You can also add a Gaussian blur, which increases the blur as you move closer to the edges of the image. Scale the edges of the image by painting. You can easily paint the edges of an image by using the Direct Selection tool. With the Direct Selection tool, click and drag across the image (outside of the selection), creating an edge. You can use the brush tool or the eraser tool to smooth it out. Click File > Save for Web and Devices or File > Export for Web and Devices, then choose Render. Click File > Page Setup and choose "Fit to page" or "Scale to fit." Save the image. Click File > Save, then choose one of the options at the bottom of the window that appears. Select your file type. You can change the file type in the Save as Type menu. To change file types, first select the format you want to use in the image (JPEG, TIFF, etc.). If you want to change the format, select the format you want from the menu at the bottom of the Save As Type menu, then click OK. You can also change the photo format in the Save for Web and Devices and Export for Web and Devices dialog boxes. Create a GIF. With the Image Processor tools, you can create a GIF file from an image using a recipe. Click File > Create GIF or Web Gallery from Image. Set the dimensions of the GIF. You can set the dimensions of the GIF after the file is created. Set the frames. You can

Welcome to Bimmerfest -- The #1 Online Community for BMW related information! Please enjoy the discussion forums below and share your experiences with the 200,000 current, new and past BMW owners. The forums are broken out by car model and into other special interest sections such as BMW European Delivery and a special forum to voice your questions to the many BMW dealers on the site to assist our members! Attached Images Hi, I need to buy a new car and I'm looking at the BMW brand. I'm basing the decision for the next car on the 'new' Audi and the VW products. I've looked at the new Audi A4, Jetta, and GLC. Of those three, I prefer the Audi. From a value standpoint, it is comparable to the GLC, (much better than the Jetta). I'm wondering if a) the midsize BMW sedan will be a good value for me and b) if the 5-series are better than the 4-series (the E63 sedan and convertible notwithstanding). Right now, there are so many models and options that I'm a bit overwhelmed (with data overload!). Thanks for any help. 1) They all do. As for their differences, none really stand out from the others, except for I think the M5. The E39 was a fine car but the E60 is just a notch or two ahead of it, for me anyway. In between, the 4-series is as good as it gets, in my opinion. 2) M5 Vs. 335d comparison... I'll be damned, but I'd have to say I'd rather have the 335d over the M5 (as good as the M5 is, its just not as good as the 335d). Thanks. The Audi is more up my alley (though I like a lot of the 5-series, and I'd like to learn German so I can handle a 5er in German). The Jetta is cheaper, but I really like the way the BMW looks. I prefer the round headlights to the Audi's rectangular lights. From the short time I've spent with a GLC, it seems pretty decent. If I were to ever buy an auto, it would likely be a German product. In the case of the 5-series, the E93 sedan doesn't do it for me. It just doesn't feel good. Especially in the cockpit. With the E60
